

CLIVEDEN HOUSE

A unique heritage of hospitality lives on

More than 300 years old, Cliveden House is still the epitome of elegance, extravagance and refinement, and while no longer a venue for political and social intrigue, the impeccably maintained building offers the same unsurpassed hospitality and entertainment with which its name was associated in the past.

A stay in one of the luxuriously appointed rooms promises the experience of a lifetime. Unmatched attention to detail and flawless, discreet service is courteously provided by the four members of staff allocated to each of the rooms, which are named for prominent figures from Cliveden's past. The tradition of fine dining continues today with award-winning cuisine in beautiful surroundings.

Set on the Thames amid 376 acres of magnificent formal gardens and parkland, with panoramic views of the Berkshire countryside, Cliveden provides an exceptional range of leisure activities. In addition to tennis and squash courts, two fully equipped gymnasias and a spa, boating, horse riding, fishing, golf, shooting and archery are also available.
